HOW TO USE THIS BOOKLET

This booklet is designed to guide you through a simple, powerful 7-day reset that helps you regain clarity, rebuild discipline, and restore your momentum. Each day focuses on one key area that influences your energy, mindset, and consistency.

To get the most out of this journey:

1. Commit to one day at a time

You don't need perfection — you need presence.

Show up daily and give each task your honest effort.

2. Create a quiet moment for your daily reset

Choose a time when you can reflect without rushing. Morning or evening both work — consistency matters more than timing.

3. Do the task fully

Each task is simple but intentional. Give yourself permission to slow down and engage with it.

4. Answer the reflection questions honestly

Your growth comes from your honesty. There are no right or wrong answers — only awareness.

5. Choose your one word daily

This word becomes your anchor, your intention, and your emotional compass for the day.

6. Use the notes section freely

Capture insights, breakthroughs, frustrations, or anything that comes up.

This is your space.

7. Carry your wins into the next chapter

At the end of the 7 days, you'll reflect on your progress and create a simple 30-day momentum plan to keep your energy moving forward.

This is your reset.
Your rise begins here.

DAY 1 — MENTAL RESET

Clear your mind. Clear your direction.

Your mind is the engine of your momentum. When it's cluttered or overwhelmed, everything slows down — your energy, your decisions, your confidence, your progress.

Day 1 is about creating mental space so you can think clearly, act intentionally, and reconnect with the version of yourself that knows where it's going.

This is not about solving everything today.

It's about resetting your internal environment so the next seven days can work for you, not against you.

TODAY'S FOCUS

- Release mental clutter
- Regain clarity
- Reconnect with your priorities
- Create space for new momentum

TODAY'S TASK: 10-Minute Mental Download

Take a blank page and write down everything sitting in your mind right now — tasks, worries, ideas, reminders, frustrations, goals, unfinished business.

Don't organise it.

Don't judge it.

Don't filter it.

Just empty your mind onto the page.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

1. What thoughts have been draining my energy lately?
2. What thoughts have been inspiring me?
3. What do I need to let go of mentally to move forward?
4. What is one thing I can focus on today that will make everything else easier?

MY WORD FOR TODAY

NOTES

DAY 2 — ENERGY RESET

Rebuild the physical and emotional energy that fuels momentum.

Your energy is your power source.

When it's low, everything feels heavier — your decisions, your discipline, your motivation, your confidence.

When your energy is aligned, you think better, act faster, and feel more grounded.

Day 2 is about reconnecting with the habits and choices that strengthen your body, calm your emotions, and support your momentum.

Small shifts in energy create big shifts in your life.

TODAY'S FOCUS

- Reconnect with your body
- Restore emotional balance
- Strengthen your energy foundation
- Create space for calm and clarity

TODAY'S TASK: 20-Minute Energy Activation

Choose one of the following and commit to it fully:

- A 20-minute walk
- A simple stretch or mobility routine
- A light home workout
- A quiet breathing or grounding session
- A slow, mindful movement practice (yoga, flow, etc.)

The goal is not intensity — it's activation.
You're reminding your body that it is alive,
capable, and ready to support your goals.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

1. How did my body feel before the energy activation?
2. How did I feel afterward?
3. What emotions have been sitting in my body lately?
4. What is one small daily habit I can add to support my energy?

MY WORD FOR TODAY

NOTES

DAY 3 — ENVIRONMENT RESET

Shape your surroundings to support your goals, not sabotage them.

Your environment is always influencing you — quietly, consistently, and often without your awareness.

A cluttered space creates a cluttered mind.

A chaotic environment drains your energy.

A clean, intentional space strengthens your focus and supports your momentum.

Day 3 is about taking back control of the spaces you live and work in.

When your environment is aligned with your goals, discipline becomes easier and clarity becomes natural.

TODAY'S FOCUS

- Create physical order
- Reduce visual and mental noise

- Build an environment that supports your habits
 - Strengthen your sense of control and calm

TODAY'S TASK: The 15-Minute Space Reset

Choose one space that affects your daily energy and reset it for 15 minutes:

- Your desk or workspace
- Your bedroom
- Your kitchen counter
- Your bathroom sink area
- Your car
- A drawer or shelf you use often

Set a timer for 15 minutes.

Declutter, wipe down, organise, or refresh the space.

Stop when the timer ends — the goal is progress, not perfection.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

1. Which space did I reset today, and how does it feel now?
2. How does my environment affect my mood and focus?
3. What clutter have I been tolerating that I no longer want in my life?
4. What is one small habit I can add to keep my environment supportive?

DAY 4 — DIGITAL RESET

Reduce noise. Reclaim your attention. Restore your peace.

Your digital world has a direct impact on your mental world.

Every notification, every message, every scroll, every pop-up steals a little bit of your focus, your energy, and your emotional clarity.

Day 4 is about taking back control of your digital space so your mind can breathe again.

When you reduce digital noise, you increase mental peace — and your productivity rises naturally.

This is not about avoiding technology.

It's about using it intentionally, instead of letting it use you.

TODAY'S FOCUS

- Reduce digital clutter

- Protect your attention
 - Create healthier screen habits
 - Strengthen your mental calm

TODAY'S TASK: The 1-Hour Digital Boundary

For one hour before bedtime, switch off all screens:

- No phone
- No TV
- No laptop
- No social media
- No messages

Use this hour to unwind, reflect, breathe, and prepare your mind for deep rest.

This is not about avoiding screens all day — it's about protecting the most important hour for your mental and emotional reset.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

1. How did I feel when I stepped away from screens before bed?
2. What digital habits have been draining my focus lately?
3. What notifications or apps do I need to silence or limit?
4. What can I replace my evening screen time with that supports my peace?

DAY 5 — FOCUS & ATTENTION RESET

Strengthen your discipline and protect your mental bandwidth.

Your attention is one of your most valuable resources.

Where it goes, your energy follows — and where your energy goes, your results grow.

But in a world full of distractions, your attention is constantly being pulled in different directions.

Day 5 is about reclaiming your focus, strengthening your discipline, and training your mind to stay present with what truly matters.

When you control your attention, you control your momentum.

TODAY'S FOCUS

- Reduce distractions
- Strengthen discipline
- Improve mental presence
- Direct your energy with intention

TODAY'S TASK: The 25-Minute Deep Focus Session

Choose one important task you've been avoiding or delaying.

Set a timer for 25 minutes and work on it with full focus:

- No phone
- No notifications
- No multitasking
- No switching tasks

Just you and the task.

When the timer ends, stop — even if you're in the flow.

This teaches your brain to focus in short, powerful bursts.

EXAMPLES OF TASKS

- Making an important phone call
 - Sending a message, you've been postponing
 - Cleaning or organising a workspace
 - Planning your week or updating your calendar
 - Starting a business activity you've been delaying
 - Recording a video or creating content
 - Following up with a customer or team member
 - Reviewing your finances or budget
 - Preparing for a meeting or presentation

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

1. What task did I choose for my deep focus session?
2. How did it feel to work without distractions?
3. What usually pulls my attention away during the day?
4. What is one habit I can add to protect my focus moving forward?

DAY 6 — EMOTIONAL RESET

Release what drains you. Reconnect with what strengthens you.

Your emotions shape your energy, your decisions, and your momentum.

When you carry unprocessed emotions — frustration, disappointment, fear, guilt, or pressure — they quietly drain your strength and cloud your clarity.

Day 6 is about giving yourself permission to release what no longer serves you and reconnect with the emotions that support your growth. Emotional clarity creates emotional power.

This is not about ignoring your feelings. It's about acknowledging them, understanding them, and choosing what you want to carry forward.

TODAY'S FOCUS

- Release emotional heaviness
 - Reconnect with inner calm
 - Strengthen emotional awareness
 - Create space for healthier feelings

TODAY'S TASK: The Emotional Check-In

Take a quiet moment and answer these three questions honestly:

1. What am I feeling right now?

Possible examples:

- "I feel overwhelmed."
- "I feel tired."
- "I feel hopeful."
- "I feel anxious."
- "I feel calm."

- “I feel frustrated.”
- “I feel grateful.”
- “I feel unfocused.”
- “I feel motivated.”
- “I feel emotionally heavy.”

2. Why am I feeling this way?

Possible examples:

- “I’ve been carrying too many responsibilities alone.”
- “I didn’t sleep well last night.”
- “I’m worried about something I haven’t dealt with.”
- “I’m excited about a new opportunity.”
- “I’ve been avoiding a difficult conversation.”
- “I haven’t taken time to rest.”
- “I’m proud of the progress I’ve made.”

- “I’m stressed about finances or deadlines.”
- “I’m feeling disconnected from myself.”
- “I’m grateful for the support I received today.”

3. What do I need emotionally today?

Possible examples:

- “I need peace.”
- “I need clarity.”
- “I need encouragement.”
- “I need rest.”
- “I need honesty with myself.”
- “I need connection with someone I trust.”
- “I need to slow down.”
- “I need to feel supported.”
- “I need to release pressure.”
- “I need to celebrate a small win.”

Write your answers without judging yourself. Awareness is the first step toward emotional reset.

Then choose one small action that supports your emotional well-being today, such as:

- Taking a short walk
- Listening to calming music
- Talking to someone you trust
- Journaling
- Resting
- Drinking water and breathing deeply
- Saying “no” to something draining
- Doing something that brings you joy

Small emotional shifts create big internal changes.

REFLECTION QUESTIONS

1. What emotion has been sitting with me the longest?
 2. What emotion do I want to feel more often?
 3. What drains my emotional energy?
 4. What strengthens my emotional energy?

DAY 7 — MOMENTUM RESET

Integrate your habits and step into your next chapter with clarity.

Momentum is built through consistency — small actions repeated with intention.

Over the past six days, you've cleared your mind, restored your energy, reset your environment, reclaimed your attention, and reconnected with your emotional strength.

Day 7 is about integration.

You're taking everything you've learned and turning it into a simple, sustainable rhythm you can carry forward.

This is the day you shift from “resetting” to rising.

TODAY'S FOCUS

- Integrate your new habits
- Strengthen your identity shift
- Build a simple momentum plan

- Step confidently into your next chapter

TODAY'S TASK: The Momentum Mapping Exercise

- “Writing down my top 3 priorities each morning.”

Something that drains your energy or slows your progress. Examples:

- “Checking my phone first thing in the morning.”
- “Scrolling on social media when I feel stressed.”
- “Saying yes to things that drain me.”
- “Going to bed late for no reason.”
- “Keeping clutter in my environment.”
- “Avoiding important tasks.”
- “Overthinking instead of taking action.”

- “Reading 10 pages of a growth book.”
- “Following a simple morning routine.”
- “Checking in with my emotions daily.”

Write them clearly and commit to them for the next 30 days.

This becomes your Momentum Map — your personal blueprint for staying aligned, focused, and consistent.
